THE MARYLAND GAZETTE.

Containing the freshest Advices, Foreign and Domestic.

WEDNESDAY, November 14, 1750.

M A D R I D, July 7.

 U P O N the representations made to the king, that the sending out single ships at different times, to America, is very prejudicial to trade; his majesty has resolved to put a stop thereto, intending that for the future it be managed by flotilla's and galleons, in order to carry on a regular trade at stated times; which is thought to be the surest means to put our commerce on the most flourishing footing.

Compiegne, July 23. The king upon reviewing the grenadiers of France was so well pleased with the new exercise which they performed, that his majesty has ordered it to be observed by all his infantry, both French and Foreign.

Paris A-la-main, July 27. According to the last letters from Genoa, there still daily appears threatening and insolent letters against the conduct of the government; but being accustomed to menaces of this nature very little notice is taken of them, the magistracy thinking themselves entirely sheltered under the protection of the king. Commerce is at a low ebb, and there is yet no likelihood of the affairs of the bank of St. George being regulated.

Paris, July 26. Letters from Genoa advise, that the government has begun to impose upon all Foreigners established, and who merchandize there, very troublesome taxes, and gives them no more than three days to pay them; and, in case of refusal, to be subject to military execution. The foreign ministers have strongly opposed this regulation, as being contrary to the laws of free ports; but no body being willing to expose themselves to have soldiers quartered upon them at discretion, many, notwithstanding being forbid by their protectors, have begun to pay these taxes.

Madrid, July 30. The court has discovered the practice of such frauds in bringing home effects unregistered from the Indies, as have occasioned the arresting several persons of rank, and which will bring confiscations of an immense value into the royal coffers. It's hoped, that from a loose and negligent ours will become one of the most exact governments in Europe.

Venice, August 1. The senate appears steadfast in the resolution of prosecuting its claims, in regard to the extent of the jurisdiction of the patriarchates of Aquileia, and to have no manner of regard to the decision of the court of Rome, which seems to have struck at the sovereignty of the republic.

Fraucfort, August 6. We have received advice from Strasbourg, that on the 26th and 27th past there was such a warm dispute between the French and German troops of the garrison, that from words they came to blows; and the thing was carried so far, that whole regiments charged one against another, and about thirty were killed, and a much greater number wounded on both sides. This bloody scene occasioned a general consternation throughout the whole city, and from the animosity of the two parties, and the fury with which they were agitated, there was reason to apprehend a horrible carnage, if the officers had not happily taken the wise resolution to employ every means that prudence and firmness could suggest, to separate them; which with great difficulty they accomplished. The authors of this tumult have been put under arrest.

Paris, August 7. An order is lately issued out, that in all the churches throughout the diocese of Paris, prayers shall be publicly read for the happy deliverance of her royal highness the dauphiness, and for the accomplishment of the wishes of all France, that she may be brought to bed of a prince.

Rome, July 25. The sudden and unexpected departure of the chevalier Chapello, the Venetian ambassador, is matter of great speculation here; and some are of opinion, who are look'd upon as great connoisseurs, that his holiness was somewhat too hasty in his determination of the affair relating to the patriarchate of Aquileia; and that he ought to have shewn a little deference and respect to that republic.

Bristol, August 4. Last Wednesday, the 1st instant, the Bristol bank was opened in Broad-street, under the direction of the following gentlemen, who are at the head of this noble design, intended for the general good and convenience of trade, in this part of the nation, and indeed of the kingdom in general, viz. Mr. Isaac Elton, Mr. Harford Lloyd, Mr. William Miller, Mr. Thomas Knox, Mr. ——— Hale.

Erfurt, August 8. Last Sunday a most dreadful fire happened at Gebelet in the territory of Saxe Weissenfelds, which entirely consumed about 350 dwelling houses, besides a considerable number of warehouses and graneries. This calamity will fall the heavier on the poor inhabitants, as it is but a few years since they sustained a like loss.

Dresden, August 9. By letters from Warsaw of the 3d instant, all things were ready for the opening of the extraordinary diet; the same letters say, that their majesties have laid aside their intended journey to Danzick, so that the whole court is expected here by the end of the month. We learn from Lusatia, that an extraordinary quantity of locusts had appeared in divers places of that province, and had done an infinite deal of damage.

Paris, August 10. We learn from Rochefort, that they had last week a most terrible tempest, and that the lightning set fire to many parts of the town, and killed four men on board a Swedish ship that was at anchor in that port.

Copenhagen, August 11. Another of the engineer's assistants at the late trial of the new cannon for quick firing, is dead, and the third so much hurt, that it is thought he can't recover.

Hanover, August 14. The day before yesterday, her royal highness the princess Mary of Hesse set out in a post-chaise in the afternoon on her return to Hanau. The same evening Mr. Zwiagel, and Mr. Freychappel, two of the lords of the king's bedchamber, had very warm words as they came from attending the king at supper, upon which the latter challenged the former. They fought the next morning in a wood not far from this city, in which dispute the Baron Zwiagel received a slight wound in the face, another in his right arm, and a third through the body, of which he is since dead, to the great regret of the king, and the whole court. Immediately after Mr. Freychappel, and Mr. Grothausen, lieutenant colonel of the life-guards, who had been his second, endeavoured to provide for their own safety by a timely retreat; but his majesty has order'd several parties in pursuit of them; and in the meantime the count de Schulesberg, major of the life-guards, who was second to the Baron de Zwiagel, is put under arrest.

Madrid, July 14. Admiral Spinola, who commanded the fleet lately arrived from the Havanna, is not yet come hither to pay his duty to the king, which is much wondered at. Such just measures are taken for preventing a contraband trade, as will make the undertaking it very hazardous; but at the same time the officers of the Garde de Costas are expressly enjoined to behave with the utmost friendship towards the fair-trading ships. It is said the bankers of the court have made frequent remittances to Italy, which was believed to be destined for the court of the infant duke; but it appears that the king is of opinion, that the revenues of the duchies of Parma, Placentia, and Guastalla, which amount to 2600,000 livres of Italy, is sufficient with economy, for defraying the expence of the court of his royal highness, especially as the maintenance of the troops which that prince has on foot, is not comprehended therein.

The court has received advice of the arrival of two ships from the Philippine Isles, at Acapulco, richly laden. They have on board among other things, 4000 pieces of silk stuffs, manufactured in China. There never used to be more than one ship sent thither annually, and that was permitted to carry only raw silk, and never wrought stuffs; which cannot fail to prejudice the European manufactures.

L O N D O N.

Extract of a letter from Petersburg, July 17. N. S.

All hopes of seeing peace maintained in the North seem to be vanished. An accommodation between our court and Sweden is at a greater distance than ever. Each side remains inflexible; some potentates, that wished well to them, have endeavoured to make both parties fall a little in their respective demands and pretensions; but all in vain; and so the appeal must at last be made to Heaven, seeing there is none on Earth that can judge between them.

They write from Berlin, that they are loading a great many barges with warlike stores for Sillesia, forty of which have already been sent away, and the rest are to follow with all possible speed.

According to private accounts from Dantzick, the Russian troops quartered in Livonia, and towards the confines of Courland, amount to one hundred thousand effective men.

August 13. At Taunton in Somersetshire, a person hath invented a new method of weaving, which is performed with such ease and dispatch, that a child twelve years old, can weave double the number of yards in a day, and that in much greater perfection, than can be done by the most skilful hand in a common loom.

On Wednesday morning last, about 2 o'clock, died at Godalming in Surrey, in the 51st year of his age, the most noble prince, Charles Lenox, duke of Richmond, and duke of Lennox in North-Britain, and duke of Aubigny in France, Earl of March and Darnley in North-Britain, Baron of Settingham and Turbotton, master of the horse to his majesty, a lieutenant general, colonel of the royal regiment of horse guards blue, lord warden of the forest of Windsor, high steward of the city of Chichester, doctor of physic, fellow of the royal college of physicians, one of the elder brothers of Trinity-house, and fellow of the Royal Society.

August 21. Last Friday an express was brought, which, it is said, contained a packet from our minister at the Spanish court, which was immediately forwarded to the lords of the registry.

We hear by a person, who from his high post, ought to be very well acquainted with things, that such strong remonstrances have been sent to a certain court, that their refusal to redress the grievances therein complained of, are threatened with no less than repelling force by force.

We are informed, that some certain negotiations go on very slowly, and that the remonstrances of our ministers, upon the subject of seizing and detaining ships, under pretence of having contraband goods on board, are very slightly and indifferently taken notice of; but that on the other hand, they in some measure justify such their behaviour.

August 23. Letters from Lisbon advise, that the new king of Portugal has order'd circumstantial accounts to be laid before him of all matters that call for redress, and the merchants in particular expect that the last edict against luxury will be repealed, either in whole or in part.

Two small men of war are ordered to be built at Portsmouth, after the model of Turkish gallees, which are to be used as fireships.

B O S T O N.

Extract of a letter from Cadix, dated July 15.

The Spaniards have a design against Algiers, and are fitting out three men of war, and have transported regiments from hence to Carthage in the streights.

By Capt. Tarr who arrived a few days ago from St. Kitts, we have the following account that was sent him by Hamilton Montgomery, belonging to the ship King David of Bristol, bound from the coast of Guinea, viz. That on the 8th day of May last, the slaves on board the said ship rose about 5 o'clock in the morning, none of them being in irons on board.

The insurrection was contrived and begun by 15 that had for a considerable time been treated with the same freedom as the white men; and a great many of the latter dying, encouraged them to the design. As the chief of these slaves spoke very good English, he often convers'd with the captain in his cabin, where all the arms were loaded; — and consulting with his comrades, knowing the small strength of the white men, they at once flew into the cabin, and secured the arms in a few minutes, kill'd the captain and five of the people, thereby putting it out of the power of the remainder of the ship's crew to make any resistance, so that they got down the hold to save themselves: But the head of the Negroes call'd to them, and told them, if they would come upon deck and surrender, he would save all their lives; which they soon did, except the chief mate, who remain'd in the hold for some hours after; but sending down a white boy to acquaint him, if he did not come upon deck, they would come down and cut him in pieces; he thereupon came up, and they directly put him in irons, as they had all the others before: About eight of the clock the same evening, they threw over board nine of the white men alive, with their irons on: The chief mate was also brought on the gunnel, to be serv'd in the same manner; but one of the head Negroes interposed, and said, Who must take care of the ship? and withal declar'd, that if they destroy'd him, he would kill the first man that attempted it; whereupon they saved his life. — Having let the ship drive with wind and tide for 24 hours, they at last insisted to have her carried to the Gold coast, or Calabar, or St. Thomas's, an isle near the coast of Guinea; but the head Negro being a fellow of more sense than common, being perswaded there was no possibility of getting there, it was agreed to go where no white man liv'd; and Dehada was pitch'd upon, which they made on the 14th of May; and at 6 in the evening the Negroes oblig'd the chief mate to hoist out the boat, and they then put two white men and four Negroes on board to go for the isle; and if there were any Whites liv'd there, they were to return and kill the remainder of the crew. — But as the relator writes, he afterwards heard that they did not reach the island, and that he heard nothing of them 'til he got the ship to an anchor at Grand tier point, in Teage, a French island, on the 10th. — Where the French, upon giving some small assistance, not so much as venturing their lives, or any thing like it, charged the expenses to 3000 l. currency. — What further was done with the ship, or the Negroes, he does not write.

Extract of a letter from Halifax, dated September 11, 1750.

Eight days since, three fishing schooners met with a French ship about 30 leagues off Louisburg, bound for that port. She was about 300 tons burthen; had lost her masts, bowsprit and rudder in a gale of wind, and was somewhat leaky; and was a store ship, having on board some king's stores for some men of war that are building at Canada, together with a great quantity of valuable goods, as velvet, brandy, wine, &c. The French Captain offered the Englishmen what they could get out of her, if they would set them ashore at Canis, except one chest of money, which they reported was for the governor of Louisburg: The schooner's people offered to tow her into Louisburg for 600 l. as she did not then leak more than one spell in two hours: The Captain did not comply with their offer, but urged them to comply with his; so they took out some bales and trunks, wine, brandy, and the chest of money, with the men; some of whom they set on shore at Canis, and some they brought hither with the Captain. — The schooner's people report, That the Captain had not a mind to carry the ship in, but privately bored holes in her, in order to make her sink the quicker: She soon turn'd on one side, and her decks blew out with the weight of the ship pressing under water; and the top of the water was soon covered with trunks, bales, casks, &c.

WALTER DULANY.

Useful Knowledge has been often communicated to the World by the Simple and Ignorant, from whence great Advantages have accrued. The following Letter comes to me (well recommended) from a Gentleman in Somerset County; the Subject of which is a Negro Man, who has been a Slave, but is now free: It seems he was born in the Country, and by some Means obtained so good an Education, as to learn Reading and Writing, which he improv'd at all Opportunities, and of which he has made a good Use: for he was and is remarkable for his Fidelity, Sobriety, and Honesty, and has been for many Years a Communicant in the Parish where he lives; and has liv'd a regular, Christian, blameless Life.

Mr. GREEN,

THE principal Motive which induces me to write to you, results from a Desire of doing Good to Mankind. There are many Disorders which are incident to the Inhabitants of this Clime, which yearly carry off great Numbers of People: Now this is to inform you, and by your very useful Vehicle the Press, the Public, that there is in this County a Negro Man, who has had Physical Secrets communicated to him by an old, skilful, experienced Guinea Doctor, his Predecessor; in particular, a Cure for the Stone and Gravel, the Bite of a Snake, Dry Gripes, and Fluxes of both Kinds, more especially the Bloody Flux; as many People here can testify, who have been cured by his Medicine, when others, seemingly not so bad as they, who have been attended by Gentlemen of the Faculty, have died: He has had so remarkable Success, that none have died of that Disorder under his Care, and he has attended Numbers for near thirty Years past. His Medicine is not only safe and good, but pleasant and palatable. The Man is now grown old, and must of Course die in a few Years; and I make no Doubt but he will impart the Secret to some favourite Friend, who will perhaps keep it from others for his own private Advantage, and so on: Now, if such a Thing could be done, as to raise by the Public, or any other Means for the Use of the Public, the Sum of Fifty Pounds Currency for his Support, he is willing to communicate the whole Secret; and have it publish'd in your Gazette, for the Use and Service of all who should have Occasion for it; whereby the Lives of many, who upon reading this may perhaps ridicule and despise it, might probably be preserv'd. But I submit it to the Censure or Approbation of the Reader; and am,

S I R,

Octob. 29, 1750.
